Customer challenge

Some large supplier organizations may have branches spread out geographically. In this business environment, when quote automation sent email notifications to a supplier organization, users within the organization could not understand to which location the notification is intended for. The notification lacked information which allowed supplier users to understand the recipients.

Meet that challenge with SAP Ariba

With this feature, quote automation includes the following information in the email notifications that are sent to suppliers:

- Supplier organization's Ariba Network ID
- Address specified for the Ariba Network ID
- Vendor ID

Experience key benefits

A supplier user in charge of responding to RFQs for multiple supplier locations will now know what company the RFQ is precisely for and can respond accordingly
